- Metal hoop
- Metal End Tips
- Screw posts
- Wire-cutter Plier
- Leather eyelet puncher
- Scissors
- Ruler

How to make the leather bracelet?

Step1: make the first half part

1. Separate 9cm long leather from whole and then pass either end through one metal hoop, about 2cm. Decide and mark where you want your holes to be;
2. Punch the holes with eyelet puncher;
3. Insert and assemble your screw posts tightly. After finished all processes in above, you will get the first part of whole bracelet, about 7cm long;
4. Thread the loose end through the buckle, about 2cm long. Sew it.

Step2: make the other half part of your leather bracelet

1. Snip another 15cm portion off same leather strap;
2. On one end, attach on the metal hoop as you did in step1;
3. Directly sew the loose end.

Step3: assemble two apart portions

Once get the two above parts, you have already have most of your leather bracelet. In this step, just take the straightly sewed end of second portion and sew it to the metal loop of first portion.

Now, put the leather bracelet around your wrist, and thanks to the unenclosed closure you will be able to adjust how long you'd like your bracelet to be.
