

Dealing with Instructables Rejection

7. Study the Masters.

There are so MANY cool things on the Instructables site.
Study the good ones and learn from them!

3.
Don't expect to get featured for projects that are not unique.

10. Don't Quit

© Grandma Van's
Print-and-Mail Storybooks #28
c/o Instructables

4.

Remember the REAL reason
for writing an Instructable.
It IS all about sharing.

2.

Realize that sometimes, other projects really ARE better than yours and they will be the ones that get featured and win contests.

5.

Remember that the editors are looking for: “Content that is highly reproducible and has that ‘wow, awesome!’ factor.”

“I still think my basement maze was awesome.

But for someone who does not have an unfinished basement, it is not exactly “highly reproducible.”

It was a cool project. It got featured. It got me started.”

--luann2425

8.

Eliminate Envy. Accentuate Gratitude.

Instead of feeling envious, choose to feel grateful for all the great content on Instructables.

We are members of an awesome community.

MAZES IN AN UNFINISHED BASEMENT OR GARAGE

By luann2425 in Play > Offbeat 482 2 1 Featured

Published Aug. 26, 2017  Stats  Download  Favorite

